Frequently Asked Questions

When can I use the presence manager?

The presence manager is useful when you’re hosting an event where many people are attending, such as a lecture or a company-wide meeting and want to be sure that your attendees are paying attention to what’s going on.

What does the auto-logout option mean?

The auto-logout option will automatically log out users who have missed a set number of presence management notifications. The number of notifications is set by the host (from 1 to 5). By clicking “Yes” when the notification appears, the user shows that they are present and paying attention. This option can also be disabled.
Here’s what the Presence Manager window looks like:

1. Check-in message – this is the message that will appear for your attendees when they receive the pop-up.

2. Random pop-up every – select how often you’d like the pop-up to appear for your attendees.

3. Auto close after – select for how much time the message appears before it disappears.

4. Play audio notification – choose if you’d a sound to accompany the notification as it appears.

5. Auto-log out after – toggle this option on to automatically log the attendee out after having received a number of messages.

6. Receivers – select who you want to receive the messages: attendees; hosts, presenters, and moderators; hosts and presenters.
